WE NOMINATE

Anne Barlow Shepherd, a member of the Department of English at the Princeton Day School and one of this community's most beloved, and deeply dedicated, teachers, who this week at Princeton University's 220th Commencement was singled out for one of the four Princeton Prizes for Distinguished Secondary School Teaching in the State of New Jersey. As some 5,000 persons hand-clapped their congratulations, this 60-year old native of New Jersey — one of the four 1967 representatives of the 1,000's teaching in New Jersey schools — received a $1,000, tax-free grant and an additional $250 for her school's library.

The daughter of a remarkable engineer-mathematician-musician, whose convictions about the public service prompted him to serve for a quarter-century as president of Plainfield's Board of Education, Mrs. Shepherd has been teaching English and History in independent schools since 1930. Prior to her appointment as head of the English and History Departments at Miss Fine's in 1949, she had been an outstanding teacher in Connecticut, Pennsylvania and New York City. She assumed her present position, together with extra-curricular responsibilities, two years ago when Miss Fine's and the Princeton Country Day School combined as the Princeton Day School.

Taught to read before the age of four by a blind grandmother, a former elementary school teacher, with the aid of a set of building blocks with raised letters, Mrs. Shepherd has made books of all kinds a dominant force in her life. At age 12 she was struck down by rheumatic fever. Her only anodyne, then and now, was reading and she "read everything I could possibly understand from my family's library, as well as 100's of books from neighbors' houses. Little children would bring express wagons full of books chosen at random and pile them on the floor by my bed. It was a strange kind of education, but it was education."

Mrs. Shepherd, with rheumatic fever behind her, was Valedictorian of the Plainfield High School Class of 1924 and moved on to Vassar, with the hearty recommendation of "a Princeton senior next door," to graduate with Phi Beta Kappa honors and to earn a fellowship for advanced study in England. Her initial teaching assignment at the Ransome School, Plainfield, was followed by markedly successful tours of duty at the Paxton Country Day School, Stamford, Conn.; Calhoun School, New York City; Holmquist School, New Hope, Pa; and the Prospect Hill School, New Haven, Conn., where she inaugurated a still-remembered school-wide forum on current events.

The mother of a wonderfully promising young Yale alumnus, killed in action in Vietnam last February with the crack 1st Infantry Division, Mrs. Shepherd — wherever she has taught — has reached out to others. Here in Princeton, in addition to all she has done at The Day School, she has been a member of the Princeton Adult School's Board of Directors for the past decade, has been instrumental in launching urgently needed courses in "English for the Foreign Born" and has made time for a formative role in shaping Columbia University's summer-time "College Reading Workshops" for disadvantaged Negro and Puerto Rican students in New York City.

For leading one experienced observer to report that "I have rarely observed more imaginative, selfless and gifted teaching;" for being the kind of senior adviser who regularly receives from her graduates such questions as "Should I marry So-and-So?" or "Should I join the Peace Corps?;" for making teaching her life; she is our nominee as

SHOCK WAVE PAYS OFF

In Summer Plans. This summer it's going to be pretty hard for a Princeton teenager to moan, "There's nothing to do!"

As Youth Associates said in a recent circular to the teens, "We are glad you will be in Princeton this summer because this is where the happenings will be."

The wide-range "happenings" are the first major evidence of the way creative adults are zeroing in on the needs of Princeton's more than 2,000 adolescents. It took a series of community-wide jolts caused by police reports of drug use, drunkenness, street fights and destructiveness, cutting across all social and economic lines, to startle the adults into action.

Claude Brown Here. The Pseukays will tee off the summer activities this Friday. Claude Brown, whose book on his Harlem youth, "Manchild in the Promised Land," is a best seller, will give a talk at 7:45 p.m. in the Community Park School. Admission is free, and the program includes folk singer Berenice Reagan, the Pseukay exhibit which has circulated at both Princeton University and Princeton Seminary, and entertainment by the Pseukay singing groups. The Pseukays were founded last fall after a St. Andrew's Church dance by a Negro first-year student at Princeton Seminary, Herb McGuinn. Under his soft-voiced, determined leadership, the group has grown from a handful of Negro teenagers to about 75, involving high school students and drop-outs alike. (In Princeton, the drop-outs are often excluded from sponsored events for teenagers.)

Camping in Colorado. On Saturday, the first Youth Associates-sponsored trip begins—a 15-day camping jaunt to Colorado and the Grand Canyon, the Grand Tetons and Yellowstone Park.

Stretching youthful horizons, Youth Associates will take a batch of youngsters to Niagara Falls, the Thousand Islands, Expo '67, Lake Champlain and Lake George on July 6-13, camping every night in national, state and city parks. Beginning on July 15, four two-week sailing adventures aboard 28-foot sloops in the Bahamas will take place.

Day trips to the shore, the Philadelphia Zoo, New Hope, and to New York for baseball games, plays, concerts and museums are planned by both Pseukay and Youth Associates.

Pseukay plans speech training for selected students and classes in reading speed and comprehension. It will give instruction in African and Negro history and culture, and sponsor guest appearances by professional artists to stimulate teenagers' interest in dance and drama. Also on the agenda are music programs and a special project to help next year's seniors get into college.

After The Game. The Summer Lacrosse League starts its Thursday games on July 6 in Marquand Park, sponsored by the Recreation Department. The sport and the high, cool shade of the park attracted a steady crowd of young Princeton spectators last year. The question of where to go afterwards is partially answered now by the coffeehouse at Trinity Church, open all summer from 8 until 10:30 on a Sunday, Tuesday, Thursday schedule.

Drama workshops will meet at 7 on Thursday evenings in First Presbyterian Church under the auspices of Youth Associates. According to Rogers Carrington, director of YA, "Several teenagers have asked for drama experience that would not demand performing before large audiences. Others would like to be part of a drama production group that would perform in Princeton and exchange performances with groups in other communities."

More Variety. Teenagers can sign up for Tuesday evening discussion groups on "Ideas that are Changing Our Society" and "African Culture and History," as well as for classes in guitar playing, creative writing and "Working in Social Services." Karin Lothius will direct this program for Youth Associates, assisted by Dave Bruner and John Saladino.

In fact, there are 20 college students who live in Princeton signed up to assist in the leadership of the coffeehouse, the trips, projects and classes planned through Youth Associates, while Pseukay is relying more heavily on help from all ages.

The teenagers are recruiting young volunteers to assist the Society of Friends' migrant worker project. A training course will be given on June 24-26 at the Princeton Jewish Center. Volunteers will give a week or more of their time on a 9 a.m.-3 p.m., Monday through Friday schedule.

To keep up with the pace, a newspaper, "These Changing Times," will be published by both teens and college student. The paper will include news, sports, editorials, features and creative writing. The hunt is on for staff.

Princeton's magnificent new Community Park pool complex and the community tennis tournaments. A member of the Princeton High School baseball team wishes Princeton sponsored a league team for the upper-teen age group. He's outgrown the YMCA league. "But it costs a lot of money, you know... equipment and insurance."

"I guess it costs a lot," said another one day at TOWN TOPICS. "to work out a way that the guys could take motors apart and bring their heap in and work on it."

It costs $200 for the Bermuda trip, $50 for the Expo '67 trip and $100 for the Grand Canyon—all once-in-a-lifetime events. It's group bus fare and a little extra for a day trip, $2.50 to sign up for lacrosse, "bring your own equipment" and 25 cents for a hamburger at the coffeehouse. Some parents sign a check, some teens earn the money, some share costs with parents and some receive full or part "scholarships" from Psekay, Youth Associates, Community Tennis Program, the new pool complex and the YM-YWCA.

Most events are free or priced within the teenager's earning power. The backers are Princeton's concerned adults.

CASE, HUGHES HONORED

By Princeton on Tuesday, U. S. Senator Clifford P. Case, a Republican, and Governor Richard J. Hughes, a Democrat, were among those who received honorary Doctor of Laws degrees Tuesday from Princeton University at its 220th commencement exercises in front of Nassau Hall. Enforced absence prevented Arthur J. Goldberg, this country's ambassador to the United Nations, from attending to accept a similar honor. President Robert F. Goheen, expressing the University's disappointment and noting that "the reason for his absence will be understood by us all," noted that in accordance with tradition, Princeton honorary degrees are not extended in absentia. He voiced the hope "that we may be able to welcome Justice Goldberg on some future occasion."

Sen Case was cited as a "distinguished public servant... in the capitol of our country for nearly a quarter of a century. Believing profoundly that moderation is the outward witness of strength, not of weak compromise," the citation continued, "he has long been a leader in the fight against the ugly forces of extremism." Gov. Hughes was commended for bringing to Morven, the governor's mansion, "long judicial and legal experience, energy, broad tolerance, courage—and a bousful of children." He was cited for "believing with Milton that a complete and generous education

Armstrong Honored. A Doctor of Laws degree also went to James I. Armstrong, a native Princetonian who is now president of Middlebury College. Said his alma mater, Princeton: "When, as a schoolboy, he applied for admission to this University, he wrote that he hoped here to gain 'scholarly training and broad culture.' Rarely does a man succeed so brilliantly in achieving a difficult goal."

The degree of Doctor of Letters went to Jacob Viner, emeritus professor of economics at Princeton. His citation concluded: "Witty, fearless, tough-minded, he has poured elegance into scholarship, infused rigor into his students and colleagues, and shed wisdom on the perplexing problems on which he has advised our government."

Honorary degrees also went to: Elliott C. Carter Jr., American composer, Doctor of music; William H. Hudnut Jr., 27 national chairman of the Presbyterian $50 Million Fund Campaign, Doctor of Divinity; Whitney M. Young Jr., executive director, National Urban League, Doctor of Laws; Michael J. Lightbill, President of the Institute of Mathematics and Its Applications, London, Doctor of Science; and Yi Pyongdo, President, National Academy of Sciences, Korea, Doctor of Letters.

WOMEN AT PRINCETON?

Goheen Announces Study. The advisability and feasibility of enlarging Princeton University's role in educating women will be studied by an administration-faculty committee, President Robert F. Goheen has announced.

Dr. Goheen made the announcement Tuesday in his farewell remarks to the Class of 1967 at the University's 220th commencement exercises. The board of trustees had authorized the study at its commencement meeting.

"Let me make clear that there are formidable problems and we are not going to be precipitous about this," Dr. Goheen stated. "But the time has come when a university such as ours, with so profound a sense of obligation to the world in which it exists, must look again to see whether it can largely ignore the educational needs and aspirations of one-half of our society."

However, President Goheen pointed out that even to think of Princeton's moving substantially into the education of women raises serious financial questions—especially at a time of strained resources. "The decision can only come," he said, "after a careful and hard-headed analysis of the sort that explores the several options, pins down their costs and assesses development in this direction against our other high-priority concerns."

At present, women undergraduates at Princeton are limited to the University's four-year old program in the critical languages, in which 13 girls participated this year. The graduate school which first admitted women in 1961, has 34 enrolled this year.

POOLS OVERFLOW

With Swimmers. It took only one weekend of 90 degree weather to convince Princeton residents that the new Community Pool Complex was a welcome ally to combat the sultry weather.

On Sunday, more than 2,000 bathers—2,000—to be exact—swarmed over the three pools. On Saturday, when the counting had been less precise, approximately 1,500 went through the turnstile. The combined total of 3,500 for the weekend easily exceeded last week's opening two-day throng—and made a poor prophet of Recreation Director R. Donald Barr.

Just last week, Mr. Barr had said he thought the opening weekend crowd would only be exceeded once throughout the year: on the July 4 weekend. Despite the crowd, there was room for everyone.

The swimming complex is designed to accommodate 3,500 swimmers at one time, Mr. Barr said. "Even so, he added, there were a lot of people there."

Happily, big crowds translate into big receipts. "Receipts are going extremely well," said Mr. Barr. "By next board meeting (June 21) we will be pretty close to meeting our operating budget." The Joint Recreation Commission has estimated its yearly cost to operate and maintain the pools at $40,000.

"It's been fantastic," beamed Mr. Barr. "With the low daily admissions we're charged—"

BYPASS ROUTE SHIFTED

New Alignment Supported. Ribbon cutting ceremonies are still a long way off, but it appears that Princeton's long-awaited bypass has finally found a route that, despite a few minor objections, pleases everyone.

Transportation Commissioner David J. Goldberg received almost unanimous approval from officials of Mercer, Somerset and Middlesex counties Monday after they viewed the department's new alignment of the route. In addition State Senator Sido Ridolfi (D-Mercer) predicted the Legislature would approve the new routing in November.

The change puts the beginning of the bypass, known officially as Route 92, a little closer to Princeton on Route 206, about at the intersection of Cherry Valley Road, instead of farther north near County Route 533. From there it curves northward, crossing Highway 27 near Raymond Road and intersects with Route 1 near Ridge Road.

It swings into the old alignment east of Plainsboro and continues on to a junction with Route 33 outside of Hightstown. This nine-mile eastern section has already received Legislative approval.

South Brunswick Objects. The original alignment of the 4½-mile western section had run into opposition because of its route through part of Kingston Trap Rock Quarry and an apartment development in South Brunswick Township. Senator William E. Ozzard (R-Somerset) had blocked its approval in the Senate, aided by Sen. Ridolfi and Middlesex Democrats J. Edward Crabel and John A. Lynch.

The new route is not completely satisfying to everyone, either. South Brunswick Committeeman Herbert Wright complained that its intersection with Highway 27 is too close to Raymond Road, and suggested shifting the road farther south in that area.

Mr. Goldberg said he would take the suggestion under advisement, along with a Montgomery Township proposal to incorporate Cherry Valley Road into the Route 206 interchange. Goldberg warned officials to protect the alignment against any development that might bring on new opposition in the future.

The Princeton bypass section of the route—a four-lane highway with room for expansion to six—will cost $9.2 million, $1 million more than the old alignment would have cost. The total cost for all of Route 92 is put at $25 million.

This will probably delay construction of the route for some years. Mr. Goldberg would not even predict a completion date for the road, pointing out that department is always short of construction funds and that there are many projects competing for what money there is.

The new alignment also has to survive another public hear-

REUNION WEEKEND QUIET

Police Report. "It was a pretty quiet weekend. There were no serious accidents, no series incidents. We had a few lost cars and a few minor thefts, but that was all."

This was the way Borough Chief of Police Peter J. McCrohan summed up reunion weekend, as far as his department was concerned. "Very quiet. No trouble at all," closed the Township police.

Two of those minor thefts Chief McCrohan referred to involved parked cars. Dr. Beverly Douglas Sr. of Nashville, Tenn., told police that clothing and a plastic suit carrier with a combined value of $265 had been stolen from his car while it was parked in front of 39 University Place. The address was the headquarters for the Class of 1914.

Police said a front vent window had been forced. The incident occurred between 2:30 Saturday and 9:30 the next morning.

An alumnus from Louisville, Ky., told police that a $100 camera and a $200 pair of binoculars were stolen over the weekend from his car parked in the rear of the old Nassau Street School. Nothing else was taken, police said.

Miss Joyce Sinkler, 307 Witherspoon Street, reported the theft Saturday of her wallet from the foyer of the Westminster Choir College Administration Building.

Miss Sinkler told police that she had noticed a young Negro youth sitting next to her purse nearby. She described him at 18 to 20, with a goatee and mustache and wearing a green and white striped shirt. When she checked her purse, her wallet containing $2.40 was missing. Miss Sinkler had been employed temporarily by the Class of 1942.

On Monday, Frank Mayer of Lambertville, a limeman employed by Public Service, called police to report the theft of his wallet from his lunch box.

He had left his lunch box, he said, on the front seat of his truck while he was working on John Street. The driver of the truck told police he had noticed two youths get in the truck. Mr. Mayer's wallet contained $5 and personal papers.

GIRL STRUCK BY CAR

Condition Satisfactory. An eight-year-old Princeton girl is in satisfactory condition in Princeton Hospital this week, five days after she was struck by a car on Tee-Ar Place.

Debra Ann Graft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Graft, 345 Franklin Avenue, received a fractured skull, lacerations of a car driven by Robert D. Watson, 17, 13 Euclid Avenue, Kingston. The accident occurred Thursday afternoon near the intersection of Franklin Avenue.

Watson told Pil. Frank Boccanfuso that he had noticed a group of children in the opposite lane and as he drove past them, the Graft girl darted into his path. He estimated his speed at the time to be between 10 and 15 miles per hour.

Joseph Navatto Jr., 62, of Baritan, received bruises of his right shin and knee and a whiplash injury last Wednesday morning when his car was hit by another in the intersection of Witherspoon Street and Valley Road.

Mr. Navatto's 1967 sedan was struck by a car operated by Norman S. Sked, 81, of Trenton. Mr. Sked, driving on Valley Road, told police he failed to see the Navatto car and entered the intersection.

Pil. Michael Kopliner, the investigating officer, issued no summons but suggested in his report that Mr. Sked be given another driver's examination because of his age.

Mrs. Mary L. Cloak, 76, 35 Marion Road, was injured and admitted to Princeton Hospital early last week, following a three-car collision at the intersection of Washington and Faculty Roads.

Mrs. Cloak suffered a fractured shoulder, fractured ribs and a broken collarbone. Her condition was described this week by Princeton Hospital as good.

Mrs. Cloak told police she had eased her car into Washington Road to see if any cars were coming down the hill because her view was blocked by a Bell Telephone truck. The traffic light at the Faculty Road intersection, which she

Mrs. Cloak's car was hit on the left side by a 1967 car driven by Carole Davis, 25, of Philadelphia. Mrs. Davis, who received scraped knees and shoulder bruises, told Sgt. Jack Petrone, "I was driving about 30 miles per hour and noticed the light on yellow flash. I slowed down and the next thing I saw this car in front of me."

Rosemary S. Dewis, 39, 54 Penn Lyle Road, Princeton Junction, coming the other way on Washington, told Sgt. Petrone she saw there was going to be an accident and she veered her car to the right to avoid — Continued on Next Page

MERWICK TO EXPAND

With 52-Bed Facility. Seeking to increase its present patient capacity, Princeton Hospital has announced plans for a 52-bed addition to Merwick, the hospital's extended-care center on Bayard Lane.

Through an agreement with C.I.T. Educational Buildings, Inc. for construction and 10-year lease of the building, the hospital will not have to make an initial capital outlay and will acquire full ownership ten years after the extension is built. Completion is scheduled for May, 1968.

The new structure will be completely fireproof and its cement block and brick construction will match the present building. Initially it will be two stories, but the foundation will be reinforced to permit a third-floor addition in the future.

George W. Conover, president of the hospital, said the addition should be one of the most advanced and efficient extended-care units in the country. It will have its own dining room, modern kitchen and latest physical therapy and rehabilitation facilities.

Mr. Conover pointed out that the extension will increase the present capacity of the main hospital because adult patients in the convalescent stage can be transferred from the general hospital to the Merwick unit. This arrangement also will substantially reduce the cost of prolonged hospitalization, since the cost of care at Merwick is approximately one-third that in the main hospital.

Ceremonies launching the construction are set for Friday, August 4, and will coincide with the 10th anniversary of Merwick's opening as a pioneer medical undertaking in New Jersey. Originally designed specifically for old age cases and the chronically ill of all ages, it was the first long-term nursing facility in the state directly operated by a general hospital. The present unit accommodates 41 guests.

Tandy Industries, Inc., Tulsa, Okla., will serve as the general contractor, with John Psiris & Associates of Chicago acting as consultants. Total cost will be about $1 million including site work, equipment and furniture.

C.I.T. Educational Buildings, a subsidiary of C.I.T. Financial Corporation, New York City, in addition to hospital units, provides for the construction and lease or sale of residence halls, relocatable classrooms and libraries for schools and colleges. The company has provided classroom and laboratory units for Princeton High School.

BLACKOUT EXPLAINED

Human Error Cited. The four-state Middle Atlantic power failure June 5 apparently was caused by a human error, according to the Federal Power Commission.

Lee C. White, FPC chairman, said it was a dispatcher's error at Philadelphia Electric Co. "The dispatchers had written instructions on what to do in an overload," Mr. White said. "Had it been properly detected, the overload would not have happened."

"The dispatcher had data on a couple of meters (in the Philadelphia plant) which, if put together, would have indicated to him a line was overloaded," White said.

The source of the blackout was a short circuit caused by a high voltage line stretching from intense heat generated by a power overload. When the line stretched out, it sagged to a low voltage line beneath it, causing the short circuit.

The short circuit automatically shut down the closest generating plant, and in swift succession other generating facilities in the area shut themselves off, causing the blackout.

New Jersey Bell has reported that its phones remained in order, because it uses banks of wet-cell batteries to power its telephone equipment. The batteries are normally charged by commercial power, but when this fails, stand-by diesel and gas turbine generators immediately go into action.

The company reported that the most noticeable effect of the power failure was the slowness in dial tones in some parts of the state, with a delay of from 10 to 30 seconds, but by early afternoon the situation was normal. However, other reports indicate that in some instances telephone service was disrupted by failure of the bells to ring when a number was reached.

The high-ranking students are Constance Kreiss and Susan Kreiss.

san Robinson, valedictorians, and Christopher Wolf and Martha Boughner, salutatorians.

Approximately 400 students will receive their diplomas at the exercises. The diplomas will be presented by Mrs. George Fremon, president of the Princeton Regional Board of Education, Dr. John J. McKenna, acting superintendent of schools, and Kenneth Michael, principal of Princeton High School. (See page 16 for a list of the class of 1967.)

POST OFFICE?

Zoning Board to Consider. Princeton's proposed new post office will swing back into the news this week when the Township Zoning Board, this Thursday at 8 p.m., considers the pair of variances that are necessary before the new building can be built on North Harrison Street.

The Thanet Corporation, owner of the five-acre plot, will appear in the person of the corporation president, Ridgely W. Cook, to present the case.

The post office building needs a variance from the minimum lot width requirement, and a recommendation for a use variance.

MISS LEVERENZ AWARDED SCHOLARSHIP: Miss Elleo L. Leverenz, 33 Westcott Road, accepts an RCA national scholarship award from Dr. James Hillier, vice-president, RCA Laboratories. With her are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hamboldt W. Leverenz. The scholarships given to children of RCA employees have been awarded to 15 high school seniors. Miss Leverenz will graduate from Princeton High School this month and attend Cornell University in the fall.

The zoning board will also consider the request of Tri State Development for an off-street parking variance. Tri State wants to build a two-story office building on Route 206 near Cherry Valley Road, and needs 22 more parking spaces or a variance.

PLOTS ARE REVIEWED

By Planners. The Institute for Advanced Study plans to buy 6.2 acres of land between the Institute and Quaker Road from Amos Eno, and the proposal came before the Township Planning Board Monday night.

The Institute doesn't intend to develop the land for about 50 years, according to Seymour Montgomery, attorney representing Mr. Eno, and in fact, no institutional buildings can be built on the plot at all for 20 years under terms of the deed. But the Institute is looking ahead.

The Township wants a deed for 25 feet of right-of-way on Quaker Road, and stipulates that the Institute go before the Zoning Board for side yard variance in connection with some barns and buildings already on the property.

Also, because there is no public sewer or water, the plans must go to the Board of Health for examination.

Princeton University brought to the Board—although it didn't really have to, legally—its plans to expand the Springdale parking lot to accommodate 150 more cars.

As explained by C. Harrison Hill, of the University's planning department, the expansion will mean a new location for men's and women's tees at the third hole of the Springdale golf course.

The new 128-bed nursing home to be built on Mt. Lucas Road on the property now owned by Dr. Cornelia Jaynes already has the necessary use permit, but the plans came before the Planning Board Monday night for subdivision classification.

Louis Soltnick, who will build the nursing home, told the Board he will get his water from the Elizabethtown Water Company and will work out eventual sewer connections with Montgomery Township. However, just to make sure, the Planning Board will require a letter from Elizabethtown confirming the water agreement.

Also, the Board will ask for 10 more feet to give Herrontown Road 60 feet of right-of-way instead of 50. The site plan must be brought before the Board for review because the Board is worried about the integration of Mr. Solnick's plans with the Township's road master plan. On Monday night, the Board suggested that if Princeton Bank and Trust moves its Shopping Center branch to the area, as it has talked of doing, traffic problems might ensue.

TO DISCUSS ISRAEL

At Special Meeting, Abbi Ben Ari will report on Israel's immediate needs at an 8 p.m. meeting next Wednesday, June 21, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Hofstein, 21 Adams Drive, under the auspices of MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS DRIVE NEARS END: Upwards of $2,000 has been raised through the house-to-house canvass for Multiple Sclerosis, with the campaign concluding on Sunday, Father's Day. Those who have aided the cause include Diane Esposito, Jennifer Hartigan, Martin Lombardo, house-to-house chairman; Sharon Link, Gerry Sheridan, James Nufinger, Mrs. Sarah Hartigan and Mrs. Catherine Hartigan. Contributors include Mr. Sheridan, a Nashville, Tenn., resident here for his 20th reunion, and the Hartigans, on a world tour from Australia.

the State of Israel Bonds Organization.

Dr. Henry S. Abrams is chairman of the Princeton Area emergency campaign, with Mrs. William Klineberg, as co-chairman.

"Now, more than ever, the people of Israel need our bond support," Dr. Abrams said in announcing the meeting, "to rebuild what has been lost during the fighting and to renew the economic development interrupted by this whole crisis."

VOTERS TO DECIDE

On Lawrence Schools. In an attempt to alleviate overcrowding in its schools, the Lawrence Township Board of Education will ask Township voters to approve plans for an intermediate school in a referendum in early October.

The school initially would house all fifth and sixth grades, a setup which the board believes has significant advantages over the traditional K-6 elementary school. The decision was reached after a two-month study by the Board, the School administration and a teacher's committee.

By grouping these grades in one school, the Board feels specialized instruction can be achieved more effectively in science, mathematics, remedial and enrichment programs. In addition to fitting in well with long range plans for the school construction in the future, the new school would relieve overcrowding in elementary schools, and prevent major redistricting, which a K-6 school would require.

If approved, the school probably would be located adjacent to the Township Green Acres property.

Thanks for League's Work.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

May I take this opportunity, on the eve of our departure from Princeton, to thank publicly the Small Animal Rescue League for their tireless efforts in helping us find homes for our pets. I have been deeply moved by the kindness and understanding of Mrs. A. C. Graves, the League's adoption officer, and our knowledge that our pets will go to the best possible homes has made the necessary parting much easier for us all.

RUTH M. DOLBY

"A Philistine Pressure Group."

To the Editor of Town Topics:

My annual returns to Princeton from New Haven have in the past been marred only by my dismay at Princeton's habitual sickness, such as the attitudes of Princeton's youth and, worse still, the attitudes of Princeton's adults towards its youth. Problems towards the solution of which little effort or progress has been made, as one might have expected.

This spring has presented a new and more frightening phenomenon, whose earer I have been following with horror, at a distance: the Family Movie Committee. Of all the distressing aspects of this movement, which has for the most part been challenged effectively in the TOPICS, the most distressing is that a town which prides itself on its education and on its educational system, that a town which enjoys a fine reputation as an intelligent, liberal community, should harbour a philistine pressure group that has conspired to impose anti-artistic standards on the entire community under the pretext of protecting today's youth from evil cinematic influences.

It is not my intention to argue at this time any of the several issues brought out in the series of letters published in the TOPICS, in the Question of the Week of May 4, and in private discussions. I merely wish to record my distress at the intellectual level in which the FMC has attempted to conduct the controversy and my hope that the appearance of such a group reflects only the temporary aberration of a small part of the community.

It is unfortunate that this group has by its tactics drawn the attention of the public away from cinema's status as art and forced it to utilize this artistic form as a rallying point in a necessary defense of its civil liberties.

The controversy has now seemingly died down; the reply of Palmer Square, Inc. has made it clear that a small, doctrinaire group cannot impose artistically mediocre or inferior cinema upon a public that demonstrably seeks out the best cinema that can be gotten for it; Princeton University students and Princeton citizens have made it clear that they do want the best cinema that can be gotten for them. (This is not to defend the artistic integrity of Palmer Square, Inc., which, it must be recognized, is a commercial organization naturally interested in financial gain.)

The failure of the FMC is encouraging, as is the rallying of Princetonians unafraid of defending themselves in the face of a perilous threat to their civil liberties. It is my hope that this was merely a test that we have passed, and that we will be permitted in the future to enjoy and appreciate whatever cinema of high artistic quality is available, regardless of its content, without being subjected to further interference and harassment.

HOUSING CODE ADOPTED

By Council. Borough Council unanimously passed an amendment Tuesday night to the housing code requiring a certificate of occupancy for each rental unit. Action was taken after objections charging that the new ordinance was both too permissive on the one hand, and not needed on the other.

The new amendment stops short of requiring mandatory inspections between tenant occupancy. The Borough Health Officer merely must agree that any rental unit meets certain health standards. He is not required to check the property before issuing the certificate.

Mayor Henry Patterson pointed out that Council was trying to be as fair as possible to tenants, landlords and taxpayers. The provisions of this amendment can be carried out without hiring additional employees.

Oren Jack Turner, a member of the health board, commented that "the amendment is an improvement over what we have, but a little more permissive than we had hoped for in the first place." Mr. Turner said he had reservations about the health officer being able to issue a rental certificate without actually having visited the property in person.

Those Opposed. Opposition to the ordinance came from Lowell Curran Sr., who described himself as having been engaged in property management for almost 50 years. He said the new law would have the Borough step in between the "haggle business" that has traditionally taken place in Princeton between landlord and tenant over what will be done by each to make the apartment suitable at a particular price.

Mr. Curran also commented that he did not see how the Borough could avoid setting up a huge force to carry out the provisions, and that strict enforcement will be quite an expensive proposition. He added that it is likely that neither tenant or owner will bother to report vacancy of the unit in order to avoid inspections.

In other action, Council received a petition signed by 27 residents of Hamilton Avenue asking that something be done about the great number of cars owned by high school students parked in the area. The residents charge the cars block driveways and create a safety hazard in the event of a fire.

Mayor Patterson commented that Borough Clerk Robert Mooney is heading a three-man committee that is presently taking a look at traffic and parking regulations around town, including this area, and will make its recommendations to the council. This is preferable to piecemeal action, the Mayor said.

Liquor Violation Hearing. Another communication received by the council concerned a charge of selling liquor to a minor made against the Wine & Game Shop by the State Alcoholic Beverage Commission. Since the sale was made to an out of state resident, the case is being heard in Newark.

The Rosedale Road traffic light appears to be down, but not out. The state has rejected the County once on the matter, but Council reported that the County would make another attempt. A petition for the light bearing 197 signatures was sent to Miss June Strelecki, director of Motor Vehicles.

Mayor Patterson reported he was optimistic about plans being worked out for leasing of the Engineering Building on Witherspoon Street to the Princeton Youth Center, once the new Borough Hall is completed.

DISEASE HITS TREES

Quincy Tells Why. Moore Street residents, who were concerned about the blight on their sycamore trees, received reassurance last week from Frank L. Quincy, secretary of the Township Shade Tree Commission.

In a letter to Mrs. Scott T. Ritenour, 209 Moore Street, Mr. Quincy said:

Quinby reported: "The sycamore trees along Moore Street and Jefferson Road have anthracnose. This is a sort of wilt and is caused by having had a wet spring.

"The trees will probably lose some of their leaves; however, new leaves will appear toward the end of this month. This disease will not kill the trees, but it can weaken them. Spraying the trees will not halt the disease."

SIX ARE FINED

In Township Court. Six Princeton area residents were fined last week in Township Court by Magistrate Glen B. Miller Jr.

Gilbert V. Hemsley Jr., 31, Ridgeview Road, and Carl M. Adams, 18, 74 Clay Street, were each fined $15 for stop sign infractions. A similar charge against Joel Carlson, 20, 82 Harris Road, ended in a $10 fine, which Magistrate Miller suspended.

It was his belief, he explained, that the stop sign at Riverside Drive and Prospect Avenue did not reflect sufficiently at night. Magistrate Miller said that he had personally checked the stop sign.

Julius A. Caldwell, 24, a student at Princeton University, forfeited a $25 bond for ignoring two summons to appear in court to answer a stop sign violation. He lives in New Haven.

Floyd H. Phox, 35 Birch Avenue, paid two fines of $8 each — one for failing to renew his license, and another for failing to renew his registration. Coker Taylor, Skillman, also paid $8 for operating an unregistered vehicle.

Thomas H. Turner, 41, Route 1, Lawrence Township, paid $15 for careless driving. He pleaded guilty.

In Borough court Monday, James Carlisle of Princeton University, paid $15 for displaying improper plates. A second University student, David Plaisir, paid $10 for displaying expired plates.

Speeding cost Robert C. Rosso, 18, 343 Witherspoon Street, $30; careless driving, Carl R. DeCavalante, 19, Princeton Pike, $15; and red light, Niranjan M. Shah, 25, 51 Humbert Street, $12.

In criminal court, William E. Diringier, 19, 9 Pine Street, was fined $35 as a disorderly person.

He was charged with directing loud and offensive language against Sgt. Robert Anderson early one morning last month on Nassau Street during a weekend of tension between University students and Princeton youths. Sgt. Anderson was the complainant.

State Halts Three. The Division of Motor Vehicles has halted two Princeton drivers for speeding and one under the point system.

John C. Bullitt, 42, Canal Road, and Steven H. Adler, 29, 221 Nassau Street, each lost his license for 30 days for speeding. William A. Lutz, 22, 1940 Hall, Princeton University, surrendered his for 45 days on points.

COMMENCEMENT HELD

SENIORS HEAR GOHEEN

At Baccalaureate Service, A blend of the comic and tragic views of life as a means of coping with the complex problems of the future was suggested by Princeton President Robert F. Goheen in his Baccalaureate address to this year's graduating seniors in the University Chapel.

Taking his title "To Strike a Line of Purpose," from Robert Frost, the president explained the two views of life in these words:

"The comic view, in its way that is simultaneously realistic and rational, sees the distortions, the pretensions, the folly of man's efforts; but it does not despair of man. The tragic view, which is realistic, too, but fed from deeper emotional springs, sees man's strengths and nobility and high promise undercut and brought low by his pride and feebleness and failures, but to abandon hope is not its counsel either."

"Both views are true," President Goheen said. "To know them, to make them one's own, can help keep you sane and steady as you work to strike your lines of purpose across the future."

Dr. Goheen suggested blending the two outlooks as a means of finding answers to three broad questions he posed to the seniors concerning their education at Princeton, their principles and the uses of the past.

In discussing the seniors' Princeton education, Dr. Goheen noted: "Education can happen in a poetry reading recite with guitars and beards. It can also fail to happen in formal classrooms and ivied halls. At Princeton, we have not required guitars and beards, but we have tried to make the ways and means of education diverse and flexible."

"We expect," Dr. Goheen continued, "that you have learned to see the parts, as well as the wholes; to discover beauty in things and in ideas that you did not see before; and, accordingly, to be dissatisfied with what is merely superficial and second-rate when it tries to masquerade as something more."

Moving on to the problem of identifying principles, the Princeton president pointed out that trying to maintain ideals such as freedom of speech could lead to a form of extremism.

He characterized extremists as "armed with selfrighteousness and simplistic dogmas, and quick to deny to those who oppose them all claims to veracity or good will. If you disagree you are a scoundrel. Because your views are contrary to theirs, your every argument is specious, your every move sinister."

"The absolute insistence on all or nothing does little to improve things on this troubled planet," he noted. The answers must be sought in the grubby day-by-day business of living and working as honorably as you can, without self-delusion and without despair."

Reflecting on the uses of the past, Dr. Goheen reminded the seniors that other generations were restless, also; raising troublesome questions and challenging old attitudes. "We, too, know something of idealism, and of the sense of being let down," he said. "We, too, have inherited a free society, and are trying to make it more free and work better."

To summarize "the inextricable blending of things in human affairs which wise men have long recognized," Dr. Goheen quoted from a speech given by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara:

"All the evidence of history suggests that man is indeed a rational animal — but with a near infinite capacity for folly. History seems largely a halting, but persistent effort to raise his reason above animality."

"He draws blueprints for Utopia. But he never quite gets it built. In the end, he plugs away obstinately with the only building materials really ever at hand: his own part-comic, part-tragic, part-cussed but part glorious nature."

Funny, you don't look like a 4-cycle, 1498cc, 73hp, overhead valve V-4.

Bet you still think SAAB has only one kind of engine. Our famous 2-cycle, 3-cylinder "Shrike" engine. Well don't bet on it. Because SAAB now has a new V-4 engine, too. Zero to 50 in 10 seconds. Top speeds of over 90 mph. More power for acceleration. For hills. For safer passing. (And V-4 SAABs have front wheel disc brakes, for stopping all that power.) Funny thing, but it looks like this new high-performance V-4 should make the rally-winningest car in the world an even bigger winner. (That's something you can bet on.)

Living room with fireplace and wall of windows opens off foyer. Rear dining room. Fully equipped kitchen with large breakfast area. Laundry-mud room, family room overlooking back yard. 4 bedrooms and 2 baths on second. Many windowed basement could easily be converted to many uses. Carpeting and central air-conditioning. 2 car attached garage. $59,500

Master bedroom, big tiled bath and paneled study. Cellar and two car garage. And as for the gardens . . . you'll really have to see them . . . beautiful! Everything inside and out is in perfect order. On a convenient quiet street. $27,500

YOU'RE IN FOR SOME DELIGHTFUL SURPRISES, if you expect this handsome two story to be as predictable inside as its stolid colonial cousins. We won't deny, it has the usual complement of rooms, including 4 for sleeping, 2 for bathing, and one each for living, studying, cooking playing and powdering the nose, but here the cliché ends. For example, you will step up to a two story living room that stretches across the back of the house, and the master bedroom is sleek with modern built-ins and the children's bedrooms are quietly off by themselves and lots of other important variations that you'll enjoy discovering for yourself. Pretty country location not far from town. $36,500

Witherspoon School Dedication Set for Friday

Graham Rohrer, former president of the Borough Board of Education and a leading figure in the planning and construction of the John Witherspoon School, will be the speaker at dedication ceremonies for the school to be held this Friday at 11 a.m.

The dedication will be held in conjunction with the graduation of John Witherspoon's eighth-grade class. Governor Richard J. Hughes will give the address to the graduates.

John Witherspoon's dedication will begin as Timothy Smith, president of the Student Council leads the audience in the flag salute. The Rev. Donald Meisel will give the invocation, and an instrumental quartet conducted by Sidd Kramer, will play.

Dr. L. Wesley Johnson, principal of John Witherspoon, will give the welcome and Dr. John J. McKenna, acting superintendent of the Princeton Regional Schools, will give the introduction.

Following the presentation by Mrs. George H. Fremont, president of the Princeton Regional School Board, and Jack B. Twichell, superintendent of schools for Mercer County, Mr. Rohrer will give his address. Mrs. Robert Gilpin, president of the John Witherspoon P.T.A. will also speak.

The program will conclude with presentation of the school key, and a musical interlude by Christopher Sanburn.

After the music, the eighth grade graduation will begin. Mrs. Mancianna Parrella will direct the school glee club, and Philip J. Cobb, assistant principal, will present special awards.

Dr. Johnson will include Governor Hughes, and following the Governor's address, Mrs. Fremont will present certificates to the graduates.

rence Citizens' Association are staunchly opposed to a proposed major zoning change which would permit E. R. Squibb & Co., a pharmaceutical firm, to build a large complex of administrative offices and research laboratories.

More than 50 residents were present at a Township committee meeting last week at which the committee passed the ordinance on first reading. Three Democrats voted in favor of the bill, while two Republicans abstained, saying they had not been given adequate time to make a decision. A public hearing and final action on the matter is scheduled for next Wednesday, June 21.

Official Viewpoint Opposed. The North Lawrence Citizens' Association has made it clear that it is not fighting Squibb, but rather Lawrence Township Mayor Herman W. Hansler and the other Township officials, whom the Association accuses of showing "undue haste in their actions, and a cynical disregard for the basic tenets of good planning."

William G. La Tourette, president of NLCA, has said that a comprehensive master plan just completed, makes adequate provision for research and light industry in the Princetown Park located on Princeton Pike a half mile north of Franklin Corner Road.

Squibb is seeking a site bounded roughly by Princeton Lawrenceville, Carter, Province Line and Carson roads, which is zoned Rural A. NLCA charges that rezoning this area "threatens the stability of zoning and growth everywhere in the township."

NLCA also points out that the Township's Master Plan calls for a Green Acres park in the middle of the area in question, and that the state has already approved its 50% share of the cost for Green Acres acquisition.

Further charges made by the group dismiss the idea that the township would benefit from the tax money, because the bill for services would overtake the value of the rateable.

Educational Testing Service also comes under fire as being bigger today "than it ever promised," and for creating a formidable traffic problem. And NLCA says that EPS was promised as an exception to the zoning ordinance, "a one shot, this-time only to eternity deal." It does not want a repeat of this move.

As a final reason, NLCA cites the tremendous traffic problem which would arise if Squibb is allowed to build at that location. The Association now has a week to try and win over one Democratic town committeeman to its point of view, or carry the fight into the courts.

Five-Year Plan. In a conference Monday night with Lawrence Township Committee, N. W. Martin, representing Squibb management, said that the proposal to build in the municipality was, in effect, a "five-year plan."

The first phase of the operation, he indicated, would provide space for some 300 office personnel. If Zoning Board and Committee approval are received, ground would be broken next spring.

Additional construction would then take place over a five-to-six-year period. Eventually, "some 850 persons would be employed there," Mr. Martin said.

Under terms of the proposal, Squibb would build a sewer system from its plant to Route 206 at an estimated cost of $8,900. Committeeman Charles Connell expressed the belief that Carter Road, 206 and other streets in the area can accommodate the proposed traffic increase satisfactorily.

THE HONEY POT: With the lure of money for sweetening, Rex Harrison holds court among his former lady loves in the sophisticated comedy-mystery now at the Playhouse and RKO Trent. Edie Adams, Capucine and Susan Hayward co-star.

News Of The THEATRES

IT'S REAL
Two Nights of Folk Music.
 Real folk music performed in traditional styles will be presented by the Princeton Folk Music Society on Friday and Saturday, June 23 and 24, in Murray Theatre at 8:30.

On Friday night, the star will be Mike Seeger, appearing with Alice Foster, Hazel Dickens and Tracy Schwarz. Mr. Schwarz is a New Lost City Rambler.

A singer and performer since 1951, Mike Seeger has become widely known through his association with the New Lost City Ramblers, formed in 1958 to recreate the sounds of the string bands that flourished in the southern Appalachians in the '20s and '30s. Mr. Seeger is also an individual performer and a director of the Newport Folk Foundation.

Alice Foster and Hazel Dickens, introduced to one another by Mr. Seeger, are solo performers who sing in striking duet harmonies. They are almost the only girl singers recording traditional country music.

On Saturday, the Folk Music Society will present Louis Killen, collector and singer of traditional British ballads, including sea shanties and broadsides. He is regarded in England as a leading figure in British folk-music revival.

Tickets for the pair of concerts are $3. Individual concerts are $1.75. Tickets may be purchased at the University Store and the Princeton Music Center on Palmer Square.

"GENERATION"
At Bucks County. Can an Ivy League father be happy with a hippie son-in-law who wears bearded sandals?

This subject will be debated in three acts, starting next Monday, June 19, when "Generation" plays the Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope. The run will extend through July 1.

Durward Kirby, who put in 15 years of prime TV time as Garry Moore's colleague, and five years more as host of "Candid Camera," will play the self-assured father whose daughter marries out of her social station.

The son-in-law will be Randy Kirby, the star's off-stage son, who is known to TV audiences as Randy Kovacs, of "The Girl from Uncle." He has also been in such shows as "Mr. Novak," "Mr. Roberts," "Gidget," "My Favorite Martian" and the like.

Currently on stage at the Playhouse is "The Country Girl" starring Tom Ewell and Barbara Cook. Clifford Odets' play will run through this Saturday.

POWELL, WITH BRASS
Jane and Mariachi. We're at the Music Circus in Lambertville, with The Jane Powell Show, starring Miss P. and the Mariachi Brass, with comedian Bob Melvin.

The show opened a five-day stand on Tuesday, and will continue through this Sunday's 7:30 p.m. performance. Curtain-times are 8:30, evenings through Friday; 2 p.m. Wednesdays, 6 and 9:45 on Saturday and 7:30 Sunday evening.

Jane Powell has been in show business since she was seven, which is Head Start with a vengeance. She didn't begin singing lessons until the post-nuptial age of 11, but it wasn't long after that MGM signed her up in the pleasantly fulfilled hope that she would grow from a child star to a great big grown-up star. She has appeared in such movies as "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" and "Royal Wedding."

The Mariachi Brass is a group of nine musicians who combine Mexican brass with north of the border rhythms. The public relations man says the nine sound like a 22-piece orchestra.

STRAUSS, OPEN AIR
"Die Fledermaus." The tilt of Johann Strauss will fill the Open Air Theatre at Washington Crossing State Park this weekend when the Opera Workshop of Trenton State presents the light-hearted opera. "Die Fledermaus."

The production is a complete one, with orchestra, costumes and scenery. The opera will be performed in English, and will be directed by Dr. Byron Steele, of the Trenton State College music department.

Near the bowl of broth is a small salad in its cup. We find sliced cucumbers and a radish which have marinated in a vinegar sugar mixture, and a large chunk of crab meat on the top.

After salad and soup, we are served tempura: shrimp cooked in a very thin egg batter that leaves them crisp and very hot. To retain the heat, you dip each shrimp into a tiny porcelain bowl of hot broth. With the tempura are long green beans, briefly cooked in the same thin batter. If you prefer, you may have green pepper carrots or, perhaps, sweet potatoes instead of the green beans.

Now we come to the suki

DINNER IS SERVED. Here, minus the food, is the place setting for one of Mrs. Connie Moore's delicious and impeccable Japanese dinners. That's Yuki Moore, in full Kimono and obi, helping her mother, "New to Us" will tell you how to sign up Mrs. Moore for suki yaki.

IT'S NEW
To Us

CHOPSTICKS FOR DINNER

Forks, Too. How about su-ki yaki, next time you have dinner guests? Starting off, naturally, with rumaki and a slice of maki zushi, and from there, . . .

We're seated at a perfectly appointed Japanese table (well, it's a western-style dining table actually, and since we're eating in your house, it happens to be your table and your chairs.)

You're the hostess and it's your house, but the cook is Connie Moore, an American of Japanese ancestry who cooks the best Japanese food your guests have ever eaten. Just ask any of the hostesses who have retained Mrs. Moore over the past four years to prepare and serve a Japanese meal to guests.

We say "cook," but it's much more than that. Mrs.
Moore does the shopping, traveling to New York to visit the Japanese butcher for the special cut of beef required for suki yaki, for the soybean cake (that goes into the suki yaki, in one inch cubes, for the translucent rice vermicelli called "shiratake" and for the most fragrant Japanese green tea. . . .

She brings all of this (and more. . . wait and see) to your kitchen and cooks everything right there, serving it to your guests fresh from the very hand of the cook.

We begin with hors d'oeu-vres, probably the rumaki, which is chicken liver folded around a crisp water chestnut, then wrapped in bacon and marinated in a special marinade which includes sake, the Japanese wine. These are served hot, and if you're familiar with a similar American cocktail snack, you'll find the crispness of the water chestnut an unexpected delight.

Next we might have maki
zushi, a compact little rice cake which is really a slice from a rice roll. In the center is a small filling of chopped imported Japanese mushrooms, melon, spinach, red ginger and a bit of fish. Ask Mrs.
Moore to identify for you that splendidly salty black rim that holds the rice together.

Before we go in to dinner, let's pause a moment to say, if you don't know Japanese cooking, that it's subtle. There is the mild tang of salt, the unexpected freshness of melon, the crispness of a fresh green bean barely touched by cooking, but no harsh surprises (unless you go overboard with the bottle of Japanese soy sauce—it's a lot saltier than the Chinese you're used to.)

Now, We sit down to dinner and Mrs. Moore brings each of us a folded, steaming-hot white towel in a small individual basket. It's not merely a hot towel, but a steamed towel, and you wipe your hands thoroughly with it before you begin your meal. (Ever wish for one at an American cocktail party?)

Mrs. Moore brings with her all the lovely dishes you will need for your Japanese meal.
We begin with a clear broth, garnished with a spring of fresh watercress and served very hot in a covered lacquer-

A MAN FOR ALL SEASONS: Six Academy Awards have gone to the film, including "best picture of the year" and to Paul Scofield (above) "best actor of the year" for his role as Sir Thomas More, King Henry VIII's chancellor. Now showing at the Garden and Prince Theatres, and at the new Fox Theatre in Langhorne.

PLAYHOUSE and TRENT

The Honey Pot (now playing) Action, suspense, romance, comedy and attempts at murder are to be found here in generous measure. There's so much happening that some may wish the cast would settle down.

The film credits state that the Joe Mankiewicz script is based on a play, a novel, and a play by Ben Johnson. The last of the three is obviously "Volpone," the satire on greed.

In fact, it is "Volpone" that inspires Rex Harrison, cast as a wealthy Venetian millionaire, to enact what he calls a modern "charade." Taking a cue from Johnson's misler, he lends word to three ex-mistresses, all wealthy women, that he is dying and plans to leave his estate to one of them. The three ladies, Susan Hayward, Capucine and Edie Adams, descend upon Venice bearing sumptuous gifts, like their prototypes in "Volpone." Cliff Robertson is the handsome male secretary, the equivalent of Mosca, who greets them.

Up to this point, the film is a comedy of manners in which the dialogue flows swiftly and glibly. Then without warning, Miss Hayward is murdered and "The Honey Pot" becomes a who-dun-it. The denouement is a headlong succession of "twists" and surprises.

There are some eloquent high points in the amusing dialogue, particularly two encounters between Harrison and Maggie Smith, cast as Miss Hayward's companion. Harrison plays the part of a charming rascal with his usual finesse. But the ladies steal the film.

GARDEN and PRINCE

A Man for All Seasons, (now playing) The movie is in some ways superior to the splendid production on Broadway several seasons ago. Both film and play, of course, owe a major part of their success to the acting of Paul Scofield in the leading role of Sir Thomas More, the Roman Catholic churchman who dared to challenge Henry VIII when the monarch broke with the Vatican and established the Church of England. Scofield's performance has been hailed by critics as one of the great ones of recent decades, now recorded for posterity on film.

It was the special achievement of the stage play that it made history so immediate and alive. Producer-director Fred Zinnemann has gained a further achievement in the film through a wide variety of realistic settings that humanize the characters even further. Seeing Sir Thomas, his wife and daughter nervously awaiting the arrival of King Henry on their front lawn—a great sprawling green in front of an English castle—intensifies not only the sense of being in a real place but also the actions and responses of the characters. Henry bellows and thunders in the ensuing scene while Sir Thomas answers mildly and gently, like nature around him. There are fine performances, sensitive and quietly powerful direction, and a soft, yet vivid background of color. Robert Shaw makes a strong impact as Henry: it is a flamboyant performance, but one that never goes too far. As More's wife, Wendy Hiller is quietly effective, and in her final farewell to her husband is overwhelming. Susannah York gives an attractive performance as their daughter. Orson Wells appears in two brief scenes as Cardinal Wolsey.

It's New To Us

yaki. This is prepared on a side table near the main table, in a larger electric frying pan. Into the pan goes the specially cut beef, paper-thin, tender as a bamboo shoot and bright, bright red.

Big leaves of fresh spinach, thin slices of Bermuda onion, bamboo shoots quite unlike those you're used to huying in a can, the soybean cake, the shira take and a good, hearty wallop of sake.

Cooking is brief, and before you know it, the steaming suki yaki is on a clean plate, with chopsticks (hashi) and a bowl of rice alongside. We challenge you with the hashi—but Mrs. Moore allows forks, if you're all thumbs.

Into a little sake cup, Mrs. Moore pours a thimblefull of steaming broth to sip as you eat. Soon you find a handleless cup of that fragrant Japanese tea, and when you're ready for a second, it will come in a clean cup, and your first one will be taken away. Dessert is a concoction of Mrs. Moore's: a blend of mandarin orange slices with orange sherbet and whipped cream. Fortune cookies, just for fun.

This is the full menu. You may want to cut back here and there (maybe your guests are allergic to shrimp, or what have you). In any case, call Mrs. Moore at 924-3953 and talk it over with her. Allow about 10 days. And we repeat—she brings everything; all you need to provide is the table and the place mats.

PANTS? DRESSES?

It's All the Same. Ever think Mc Mullen would make a culotte? Try Clayton's if you can't believe us. Mc M. calls it a pants dress and cuts it out of a dark brown-black-rust print with brass buttons, or that flowered Mc M. print with a bit of classic Mc M. piping.

Serbin's culotte is crinkle cotton in a Tiffany spread of pink, yellow and white. There's a shirt style, too in twill, with button down polka dots in lime on white, or a solid mustard yellow. Serbin likes twill and uses it again in a shift you don't have to iron.

McMullen's shift is a navy and claret print with blocks of claret, like wide insertions, around neckline and across the yoke. Comes in a blue-green, too.

Clayton's packs a reversible shift with shorts underneath.

Calling All Home Makers
By Walter L. Harris
IDEAS FOR AN IMPORTANT PART OF YOUR HOME

HARRIS

Here are some tips for you on decorating one part of your home that's often neglected — the entrance area. This is an important area because it is here that a visitor gets the first impression of your home.

One of the most important jobs for the entrance area is to say "welcome." Therefore, it should be inviting and cheerful.

If you have an attractive entrance area it increases the atmosphere of hospitality in your home. Bright, cheery, warm colors are usually best.

There are practical considerations for this area, too. There usually should be someplace to put mail, keys, gloves, etc. If the area is not big enough for a table, you can consider wall shelves that require no floor space.

It's usually a good idea to have a mirror in this area. For one thing, a mirror will add depth and make your entrance way seem larger. For another, a mirror is practical for folks who want to take a last check at themselves before going out.

This area should be well-lighted, and if you do use furniture, remember to place it so it will not interfere with free and easy movement.

And here's one last tip for this area. Try some wall planters or floral arrangements. This will add one more bright, lively touch for you and your friends on entering your house.

208 members of the Princeton University Faculty express concern over Vietnam in letter sent to President Johnson

(The text of this letter is identical to the statement signed by over 300 members of the Columbia University faculty last month)

President Lyndon B. Johnson
The White House
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President:

We, members of the faculty of Princeton University, sign this statement as individuals. Few of us claim special professional knowledge concerning the tragic events in Vietnam, but all of us are occupationally committed to critical thought. We do not address ourselves to any foreign government or group — as Americans we cannot control their policies. We address ourselves to our countrymen because we believe the present war is a grave danger to the peace and well-being of the entire world, because we feel morally involved in the course adopted by our country in the name of its citizens, and because we have concluded that this course is tragically wrong. We now join in urging new directions in national policy.

We are concerned by the gradual but steady escalation of the war. Over 10,000 young Americans have already died in Vietnam, and many more Vietnamese have been killed, combatants on both sides as well as civilians; the number of wounded is in the hundreds of thousands. Each day the war continues increases the possibility of world-wide involvement and nuclear destruction on a global scale.

We are concerned by our government's persistence in treating the problem of Vietnam mainly as one of foreign aggression. We believe that the fighting there was, until our large scale intervention, primarily a civil war. We are concerned about the methods used to wage this allegedly limited war, about the destruction of villages, about civilian casualties, about the use of napalm and chemicals, about the million new refugees, most of whom are seeking to escape our fire power.

We are concerned by the huge share of our country's resources consumed by the war in Vietnam. Surely the honorable purposes of the United States as they relate to the world at large would be better served by devoting the same resources to economic development, better education, improved medical facilities. To spend billions of dollars to devastate a country that does not threaten its neighbors, let alone us, is a poor way to begin building a better world.

We are concerned about the continued bombing of North Vietnam. Opportunities have been lost to stop the bombing in circumstances that would have enhanced our national honor. We reject the view that our country should take no step toward abating the war until our adversaries demonstrate indisputable readiness to match each step.

We are concerned about the lack of "decent respect for the opinion of mankind" shown by our government's unresponsiveness to the entreaties by the Secretary General of the UN, many foreign statesmen, and many religious spokesmen.

We are concerned about the plight of young fellow citizens, our students among them, who may be forced to participate in a military action that many of them consider illegal and immoral.

We are unable to see any necessity in this war, or any legitimate national interest that would not be much better served by diplomacy than destruction. American leadership in stopping the war and an American generosity aimed at healing the Vietnamese wounds, both local and national, would earn the respect and admiration of the Vietnamese people and the world at large.

We urgently call on the President and the Congress to extricate the nation from a detestable war. This will require bold and decisive actions. One of these should be to stop the bombing in the North. We commend courageous persons in public life who speak out against this monstrous war, and pledge them our support.

Question of the Week

Question: In your opinion, should sex education be taught in the home or at school? At what age should it begin?

Where asked: Palmer Square.

David Bakry, Graduate School, geology: It should begin as soon as interest begins — it might be 7, it might be 3. I think it should begin at home, but I also believe schools should not avoid the issue:

Marvin Reh, Highland Park, employee, Nassau Pharmacy: It should be taught at home and at about age 4. It can be brought up in school but it should be started at home. If parents can't talk about it to their kids, they shouldn't have any children. It can be taken up by the schools, since between 6 and 16 the majority of kids spend more time in school than they do with their parents. Basically, it all depends on the type of sex education and who the schools have teaching it.

William McCarroll, Lawrenceville, Chemist, RCA Labs: It should be taught both in the home and in the school. I think you can begin the rudiments at 7 or 8 years old. Certainly, a child at that age begins to have questions like this.

Mrs. Mildred Kovach, Skillman, housewife: I think at home and at school. Sometimes parents are backward or don't educate their children in sex properly. If it were taught at school, then everyone would get it — just like reading and writing. I have a daughter 8 already asking me questions. Sometimes I ask myself, "Gee, should I or shouldn't I?" At what age? It's hard to say. It depends a lot on the individual child and his background. Probably between 4 and 8. This is a big problem. I feel they wait till they reach college to teach them sex; why not expose them as soon as they reach school. If it were taught in school, they wouldn't be so curious about it outside. I think there is more evil attached to sex when it is kept secret than when it is talked about openly.

Mrs. Roberta Epstein, 123 Jefferson Road, housewife: I think it should be taught both places. I think sex education starts from infancy when the child at home views the role his mother plays and the role his father plays and how they relate to one another — the whole concept of love and its relationship to sex. The formal physiological aspect of it could be taught when the child is about 10.

Miss Linda Reed, Princeton-Hightstown Road, clerk: I think parents should really teach it, but parents sometimes are afraid to talk to their kids. If they are not going to get it at home they definitely should get it somewhere — school's just as good a place as anywhere else. I think it should start early — when they're about 11 or 12.

Marcie Eddinger, Princeton Junction, Princeton High School junior: I think it should be taught in school because if parents teach it to you, they want to make sure you're extra good; they don't give you all the facts, they give you biased opinions. If it were taught in school, at least you would get the basic facts. Then it would be up to you to make up your own mind what to do. I think it should start about freshman year, but it shouldn't be in mixed classes. It should be taught in segregated classes.

Brian Rich, Cubberly Road, Princeton High School sophomore: I think most kids already know it. Sex isn't answered at home, it isn't answered at school, it isn't answered by their friends. This doesn't put parents or the school in embarrassing situations. If it were taught, I would prefer to have it taught in school. I think it should start when you're 13 or 14.

Sam McCleery, 317 Edgerstowne, PHS student: I think it should be taught in school. I don't think it's a question you can ask your parents without both sides feeling embarrassed. You can confide in them about certain aspects of it but I find, speaking for myself, I would rather get it from an outside source. As for when, I don't think you can cut it down to classes. I think it's a question of when one is mature enough. A freshman may be ready for it, while a senior may not be.

Joe Seidner, 188 Grover Avenue, Princeton High School sophomore: I think it should be taught at school because I think parents wait too long. But, if possible, it should begin at home, probably when you're 8; in school, in fifth or sixth grade.

Karl Stange, Hamilton Avenue, Princeton High School junior: It should be taught in the home. It should begin when the child starts asking questions and the questions should be answered candidly and truthfully.

Lihhy Wert, 6 Hodge Road, PHS junior: Sex?

Barbara Sejnowski, Terhune Road, PHS junior: The basics should be taught at school and expanded at home. There should be enough taught at school so kids have an understanding of what's going on. A lot of parents are too embarrassed or too modest to discuss it. I think it should start when one is around 10. A lot of parents don't feel the need for it until 15. By then, it could be too late. Another thing: when kids get into their early teens, a lot of discussion of sex goes on. You get what each one knows and try to put it all together. There is a lot of misunderstanding this way: a lot of facts are mutilated.

Carol Nichols, Somerville Road, PHS junior: I don't think you can teach it. You learn it from your friends when you are around 10 or 11. So you don't have to be taught it at home or at school. It may not be the best way, but I don't think you can avoid it. You learn it from your friends.

John Panzer, Robert Road, PHS senior: I think it should be taught at school because when the topic of sex comes up at home there is a great deal of embarrassment. You build up a wall. So when you go out, you convey this feeling of embarrassment about sex. If you rely on your parents to teach you, you may feel you are ready long before another parent may feel their child is ready to learn about sex. So if you go out and start talking about it some people may say, "What is it with this kid? Is he some kind of sex maniac?" If it were taught in the school, everybody would know about it at the same time. I think it should begin as a biological science in the lower grades and as a topic of sex in the freshman year.

It comes in three economy sizes.

These are just some of the sizes Volkswagens come in. Regular, large and giant economy size.

The one on the right, our big bus-like box, and the one in the center, our medium sized Square-back sedan, are only about 7 inches larger than the beetle.

But don't let their size on the outside fool you about their size in the inside.

Just open a door and you'll find enough room for more than enough things.

Then there's the familiar bug.

While it's not as big as the other two Volkswagens, it has plenty of room for 4 people and a small dog. Plus a suitcase for everybody but the dog.

All three Volkswagens do everything you expect from a Volkswagen. Except look silly. One of them (the Squareback) looks exactly like a car.
They have air-cooled engines in the rear that won't freeze up in the winter or boil over in the summer.

They won't use any anti-freeze and are very easy on gasoline. (The bug and the Squareback average about 27 miles on a gallon of gas. The box about 23 miles.)

And they'll go about 35 to 40,000 miles on a set of tires.

So you see, no matter what size we make VWs, they're all pretty economical.

Why not come in and size one up?

WHO CARES?

Some Do, Many Don't. The question of what sort of athletic event to stage as the climax of the Alumni Day Parade remained unanswered Saturday after a five-inning exhibition between the Princeton varsity and a team of players from one to 25 years out of college.

Nearly two hours after the first ball had been tossed out by the Class Boy from 1962, most of the spectators had long since departed. Many alumni left Clarke Field as soon as their classes broke ranks, and hundreds of others stayed for only an inning.

The traditional June heat was a factor—90 degrees without shade is tough to take after a cold spring. Departures from the former Yale-Princeton games were numerous, too, but at least for those who stayed to see if the Tigers could beat the Elis, the action had considerable meaning.

To have even a passing interest in an alumni-varsity game requires a knowledge of what the returning players achieved here as undergraduates, and few of Saturday's crowd had spent one spring after another watching the Princeton baseball scene unfold. Occasional biographical notes on the public address system were welcome, but sometimes missed the punch line: Harry Brightman '52 was introduced as a pitcher who had helped place the Tigers in the NCAA finals in Omaha 15 years ago but no mention was made of the fact that he once threw a no-hitter against Fordham.

Mythical Team Strong. If all the alumni on hand for the game had been in college together, Princeton would have had a team blessed with top-flight pitching and fine hurling. Herm Belz '59 was a strong right-hander who set a Princeton record by defeating Yale six times in a row, while Brightman, Jim Gibson and Tom Scott were southpaws who won many a clutch game for the Orange and Black.

THEY MEANT DOUBLE TROUBLE FOR TIGER FOES: These five former baseball players, back for Saturday's alumni game, created many a problem for the opposition on Saturday afternoons in Palmer Stadium. The one-time football stars include Pete Riley '65, Mike Ippolito '60, Royce Flippin '56, Dean Hill '37 and Jake Slagle '27. Also on the alumni squad were Ron Landeck '66 and Bob Peters '42, star backs in their football days. (Staff Photo)

Ed McMillan and Jody Johnson had both hitting power and good arms as catchers, while an infield composed of Bill McMillan at first, Royce Flippin at second, Jack Whitehouse at short and Ron Landeck at third would have hit and fielded extremely well. Outfielders John Wert, Frank Blondi and Mike Ippolito rank as a trio combining speed, defensive ability and strong hitting.

Some of the returning alumni were in surprisingly good shape, particularly the pitchers who were called on to work an inning or two and presumably were throwing hard for the first time in years. There were times, of course, when the action became meaningless: one alumnus at third base, a member of the Class of '42, failed to come within a foot of a sizzling grounder that ripped past his shoe tops, it being distressingly obvious for all to see that he hadn't touched his toes in well over a decade. Phil DeSantis, the Tigers' leading hitter this year, completed his career with an inside the park homer, but only because he could round the bases twice as fast as the portly characters giving chase in right center.

For the record, the alumni scored in the top of the first but eventually lost, 6-3, despite unlimited substitutions which gave them a chance to rest the old timers and then re-insert them later. Umpire Bill Hoodzow graced the occasion by wearing an orange and black tie, by way of showing that he was strictly impartial.

The question of what to do a year from now is one that

Harvard-Princeton on TV

The Harvard-Princeton football game will be regionally televised from Cambridge on Saturday, November 11, as part of the 1967 program of NCAA contests to be shown on the ABC network.

The occasion will mark the first time that a contest between the Crimson and the Tigers has been televised. It is the only Ivy game scheduled as part of the 1967 NCAA program, although Dartmouth will be on view September 30 when it plays Massachusetts.

won't be easily solved, particularly since Yale indicated more than 18 months ago that it was withdrawing from the scene as of June 1967. There was some talk of reviving the immensely popular Invitation Track Meet but the decision was negative.

Ability to keep the underclassmen on the varsity ball team around for ten days after they have finished exams is another problem. Any one of them with a summer job starting June 1 lost better than $100 in orders to keep the date here Saturday.

The P rade itself is sufficient-ly entwined with tradition to keep it part of the picture for years to come. There is, however, a need for an event of general interest to climax the parade, and as of now, the only obvious answer is that if the Yale game is dead, the contest with the alumni is very nearly in the same category.

CREWS TO SYRACUSE

For IRA Regatta Saturday. The final athletic event on Princeton's 1966-67 athletic schedule will involve participation of the freshman, junior varsity and varsity crews Saturday in the national regatta on Lake Onondaga, Syracuse.

Of the three Tiger entries, the Class of 1970 figures to make the best showing, having lost during the regular season only to Harvard and Penn. Harvard does not participate in the IRA, rowing Yale instead at New London.

The Tiger freshmen were third in the ECAC sprints last month at Worcester, while the jayvees and the varsity failed to qualify. Saturday's races will cover three miles.

Penn is the favorite, with a west coast crew, UCLA, and northeastern other good bets. Intriguingly, both the latter are newcomers to the rowing scene — as recently as five years ago, they had not competed in a major regatta.

REEDER, MORY VICTORS

In Carnegie Lake Races, In races held Sunday on Lake Carnegie, John Reeder and his son, Jack, finished on top among five Penguin boats with 24.3 points, and Pete Mory was the victor among three sloops.

Ed Metcalf finished second behind Reeder with 22.0 points and Tom Lawson and Larry Raffaelli trailed with 14.9 and 13.3 points. Mory edged his only serious challenger, Bob Wilson, 15.7 to 14.3.

Sunday's racing ended the spring series for the Carnegie Sailing Club. No racing is done during the summer. The fall series will begin after Labor Day.

MRS. BLAICHER WINS

Springdale Tournament. Mrs. Fred M. Blaicher has won the annual spring golf tournament of the Springdale Women's group, defeating Mrs. Mac G. Morris in the finals of the two-week event.

The tournament's "Beaten Eight" winner was Mrs. James S. Thorton, with Mrs. E. D. Shaw, runner-up. Mrs. Glen B. Miller Jr. defeated Mrs. E. J. White for first flight honors. In the nine-hole contest, Mrs. George W. Conover placed first, followed by Mrs. Richard D. Judge.

Mrs. Paul E. Orr Jr. won the professional's tournament.

and Mrs. James L. Wurga, chairman of the women's group, was second. Nine-hole winner was Mrs. Eugene M. Hinkle, with Mrs. W. A. Coogan, runner-up.

Coming up Tuesday and Wednesday for the women is the Betty Whelan Tournament initiated this year, and named for Mrs. Whelan, who has won Springdale's women's club championship 15 times. Mrs. Whelan has donated the trophy for the contest.

CARBON, ASTRO WIN

Remain Undeclared. Columbian Carbon needed a last ditch rally, while RCA Astro coasted to an easy victory, as both teams remained atop their respective divisions with undefeated records last week in the Business Softball League.

Scoring two runs in the bottom of the seventh, western division leader Columbian Carbon edged WTS-Pharmaceutical, 2-1, for its seventh consecutive triumph. The lead had changed hands six times before Jim Chiorello finally settled matters with a hit driving in the winning run.

Charlie Armenti collected four hits in four trips, with Ed Ward gaining the decision. Lew Baldassari and Denny Phillips each had three hits for the Alert defensive play by RCA Astro limited National Computer Analysts to a lone run, while the Astros rolled up ten of their own. The Astros have won five straight.

In other games Shell Chemical blasted ERC, 12-3, and RCA A walloped winless Opinion Research, 12-2, as both squads remained only a game behind Colombian Carbon. American Cyanamid knocked off McGraw - Hill, 12-6, and ran its record to 5-1, a half game behind RCA Astro.

Hopewell TV knocked Accelerator out of a tie for second place, with a 14-13 win. In a battle to escape the cellar in the western division, EMR won its first game, 15-8, over FMC.

In games played last Wednesday and Thursday, Cyanamid edged RCA A, 4-3, scoring the winning run on a foul fly out; EMR walked over WTS Pharmacraft, 20-4, and Opinion Research dropped a pair of contests, 9-2 to NCA, and 32-2 to McGraw-Hill.

MEETING FRIDAY

For Tennis Leader Corps. There will be an organizational meeting from 12 noon to 1 P.M. Friday at the Community Park Courts for all members of the student Leader Corps of the Princeton Community Tennis Program.

New applicants for the Leader Corps must attend, as well as all current members and trainees. To qualify, a player must be finishing eighth grade or above and must be enrolled in the advanced classes of the community tennis program.

At the meeting, assignments will be given for summer classes which are scheduled to begin on Monday.

The goal of the student leader program is to insure personal attention to each player enrolled in the tennis classes by providing instructors with ample teaching assistants. At the same time, the leader corps pursues a dual goal of learning to qualify for eventual jobs as skilled tennis counselors. Last year, more than 60 boys and girls participated in the program.

Further information about the Leader Corps or about registration for summer classes may be obtained from Mrs. Lewis Kraft, Ridgeview Road, or from any instructor of the community tennis program. Mrs. Kraft is director of the program.

upset over previously unbeaten Thorne's Pharmacy, to take an early lead.

Righthander Kevin Tylus hurled the Bankers to that upset over Thorne's, allowing only three hits and striking out 11. The final score was 6 to 3.

With the score tied in the last of the sixth, Charlie Brezynski circled the bases for the Bankers' winning run. In the process, he was abetted greatly by a collapsing Thorne defense which was guilty of three consecutive errors after Byezynski had gotten on via a walk.

Tim Moran and Grover Servis each collected two safeties to lead the Bank at the plate. Terry Tucker and Mark Dalton ignited a five run Thorne uprising which fell short and prevented the losers from recording their 10th consecutive victory.

Both teams had earlier engineered lopsided victories, with the Bank trouncing the West Windsor Lions, 20-2, and Thorne's annexing its ninth, 19-1, at the expense of Craft Cleaners.

Tylus lead the Bank's cannonading with a four-for-four performance which included a home run. He received support from John Bowker (two-for-two), Robbie Duncan, Phil Love and Dave Larrahee.

Craft was flattened by an avalanche of extra-base hits. Thorne's Mark Dalton stroked three triples. Gary Fowler rapped a triple and a pair of doubles, and Charlie Lanning and Denny Clark each connected for a triple and a double. Denny Clark got credit for the win, his fifth.

Pitchers' Duel. Perhaps the best game of the week was the pitching duel waged by Rich Probasco of Craft Cleaners and Wayne Wilson of Ellsworth AC. Probasco allowed only one hit and fanned 10 and finally prevailed when a passed ball permitted the game's only run to cross the plate.

Wilson struck out 11 and was touched for four hits. Two of them were solid blows by John Costas and Keith Holcombe, but both were left stranded.

Edinburg Hotel began the second half by dropping its first two, 7-4 to Ellsworth and 6-2 to the Lions. In the former game, John Fischini's steady inound performance kept Edinburg at bay, while teammates Mark Ellsworth and Wayne Wilson were lashing hits to trigger a five-run, first-inning rally.

The Lions manged only one hit off Edinburg in their 5-2 win, but a combination of walks and passed balls led to all their runs in the third inning. Taylor Toussaint hurled the win behind some tight Lion fielding.

Kevin Mason and Steve Kapp poled long doubles to account

SUMMER LACROSSE AGAIN

At Marquand Park. The Princeton Recreation Department will again sponsor a summer lacrosse league for high school and college youths. Beginning July 6 and continuing through August 17, two contests will be played every Thursday night at Marquand Park.

Application forms may be obtained at the Recreation Department in Township Hall or The Hun School. Applications should be mailed as soon as possible, together with a $2.50 registration fee, to Hawley Waterman at the Hun School. No one may play before registering.

Hawley Waterman

All players must furnish their own gear. There will be four teams and games will consist of four 10-minute quarters. According to Waterman and David Leete, lacrosse coaches at Hun who are the directors of the summer league, officials will be instructed to eliminate rough contact. Very strict calls will be made, they said.

Additional information may be obtained from Waterman at the Hun School. The school's phone number is 921-7600.

The Rock of Gibraltar would best describe this English Tudor home built in those years (1929) when quality rather than just quantity was incorporated into every house from its solid foundation to its slate roof. Yet, it incorporates ideas of today in a formal entry, large living room with fireplace, separate dining room, study or breakfast room, and pleasant kitchen. OH yes! a large screened porch. The second floor — 4 bedrooms + bath. The third floor — 2 bedrooms + bath. To all this add a 2 car garage and beautifully treed 100' x 200' lot. All this and Princeton too. $36,900

POSTAL PATRON

We wanted to import the world's one most exciting men's shaving cologne.

We failed.

We tried our darndest, but the best we could do was narrow it down to nine.

So we took the whole works. Made NINE shaving colognes from essences imported from nine countries. Put them all in one package.

And ended up with an international collection of shaving colognes we call Nine Flags. Nine great scents. Each one as different as the girls of Sweden are from, say, the girls of France.

But what can a man do with nine that he can't do with one?

He can get out of a rut. Vary the routine. Switch off when he wants something with more pizzazz. Throw his girl off guard with a change of scent. Or with a blend of several scents he mixed himself.

No single shaving cologne can make that statement.

Nine Flags
